TIMBER LOSS FAVORABLE

REPORTS recently received by the Western Forestry and Conservation Association from all protective agencies in the Northwest, show practically no loss of timber through forest fires up to the present time.

Favorable weather conditions and careful preparations for the season are the chief factors which have so far made for a clean record on the part of patrol organizations.

Following the plan of previous seasons each protective agency began, well in advance of dry weather, to get its territory in the best possible shape for successfully combating any fires which might become started.

Additional lookout points were equipped, telephone lines extended and repaired, new trails constructed, and every effort made to secure the best possible co-operation between the various patrol organizations. These efforts are now bearing fruit in the prompt detection and suppression of all fires which become started.

Although the beginning of August saw conditions much more favorable than those of a year ago, there is still time for the woods to become dry, and only the greatest care and vigilance will prevent fires from starting during the next few weeks.

Oregon experienced no fires worthy of mention during July. A few fires escaped as a result of slash burning, but were speedily extinguished without loss of green timber. About 300 wardens are on duty outside of the national forests, and this number will probably be slightly increased if rains are not forthcoming within the next few days. The need for strict enforcement of the forest laws has been especially emphasized this season, and a campaign to eliminate the smoke nuisance has been vigorously carried on.

Idaho has experienced a few small fires, none of which have caused loss of timber.

Montana reports a most favorable season as compared with last year. The Northern Montana Forestry Association has had no fires in its territory. In spite of present favorable conditions the utmost care is urged by all agencies to prevent damage during the next month. August and early September can be counted on to be dry, and a few hot days are all that is required to produce a serious fire hazard.

THE FOOL AND OUR FOREST DOLLARS

E. T. Allen

Goodbye to the fool with the empty gun;

Forgotten his bid for fame.
Though he kills his friend, it only counts one,
And that, nowadays, is tame.

The fool who playfully rocks the boat
Is on the front page no more.
He may rank high with the fools afloat
But his glory is gone ashore.

There's the fool with women, the fool
With wine,
And the fool who games with strangers,
And the joy-ride fool (he does well in his line
By combining these ancient dangers.

But they're all still down in the primer class—
More novices taking a flyer—
Compared with the prize-taking criminal ass,
The fool in the woods with a fire.

A few hearts break for the deeds they've done
In their pitiful amateur way,
But fire slays dozens where they slay one,
And scourges a state in a day.

For the ruined home and the smokeless stack,
And the worker unemployed,
Know a hundred years shall never bring back
The things that his match destroyed.

Prison Dormitory From Which Leo Frank Was Dragged by Mob

Single cross (x) shows Frank's cot in dormitory. Double cross (xx) shows cot of Green, who slashed Frank's throat several weeks ago

Leo M. Frank, the victim

These pictures show the cot in the prison dormitory at the Milledgeville, Ga., prison farm from which the Marietta lynchers dragged Leo M. Frank August 16th. The course of the remarkable automobile trip of seven cars was from Milledgeville to Marietta, more than 100 miles, where Frank was hanged. The lynchers went over a large section of Georgia, through a thickly populated country, and their route led directly toward Atlanta, the largest city of the state. However, it is believed they made a detour, and hurried on to Marietta, the home of Mary Phagan, to hang their victim.

N. E. A. HAS NOT RECEIVED LETTER

THE RESIGNATION OF MISS STRACHAN, DEFEATED CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT OF ASSOCIATION, NOT RECEIVED

OAKLAND, Aug. 24.—The teachers attending the annual convention of the National Educational Association are mystified by the failure of Miss Grace C. Strachan's resignation from the organization to reach Secretary Durand W. Springer.

Miss Strachan says that her resignation, bearing date of August 19, was mailed. Springer says he has not received it. He suggests that possibly one of Miss Strachan's friends is withholding it in an effort to persuade her to remain in the association.

David Starr Jordan, chancellor of Stanford University, and president of the association, said:

"There is not any upheaval in the association—not even a ripple. This is simply the case of one making an effort, or a series of efforts, to be elected and failing."

The incoming and outgoing officers of the N. E. A. were the guests of the Oakland Commercial Club at a banquet at the Claremont Country Club.

EVENTS IN THE WAR ONE YEAR AGO TODAY

♦ Germans renew offensive in North France, but Paris reports that French, English and Belgians are holding them in check. German report is that 10,000 French have been taken prisoners and Longwy captured.

♦ Belgium denies Namur has fallen, saying blowing up of one fort caused the report.

♦ Zeppelin drops bombs on Antwerp, killing seven, and is brought down by artillery fire near city.

♦ Invading Russian army defeated by Germans at Stolluponen, cavalry contributing to German success.

♦ Russia reports two great armies advancing over 70-mile front into East Prussia.

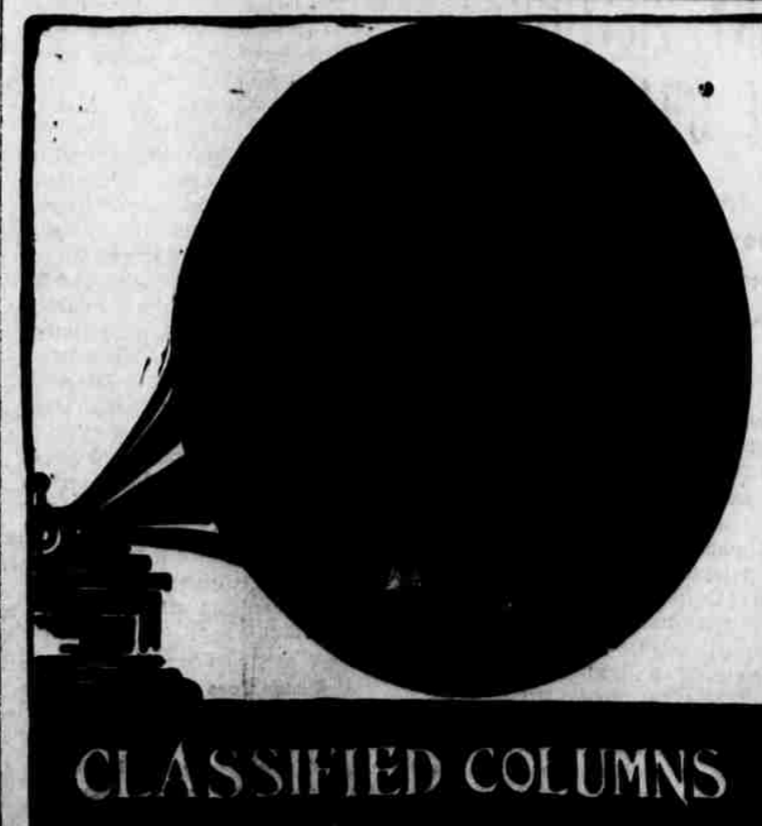

♦ Premier Asquith tells parliament that the war probably will strain empire's resources and entail sacrifices.

♦ Three thousand Russians leave Vladivostok to join attack of Japanese on Thing-Tao.

♦ Serbia announces clearing of her soil of Austrian troops by battle at Sabac.

♦ Premier Salandra assures Italian deputies that mobilization is not imminent.
